Booth's Diary-Its Contents-A Certified Copy.

Washington, May 20.—Although Secretary Stanton had emphatically said that with his consent the Diary of Booth, the assassin, should not be published, it has just been given to the public, on the authority of the President, as certified by the Judge Advocate. The admission will be observed that Booth's body was taken to Washington. Washington:

Six: I have the honor to submit herewith a copy of the entries contained in the memorandum-book found on the person of J. Wilkes Booth at the time of his capture, certified to by General Holt, Judge Advocate General, who has possession of the book, together with his report in relation thereto. The memorandum-book was first seen by me about the 26th day of April, 1865, shortly after Booth's capture, and a few hours before his remains reached Washington.

receiving the memorandum book from me he sealed it up, and locked it up in his safe, and it continued in his possession until he delivered it to the Judge-Advocate General and that it was the in the safe, and that it was the interest and that it was the safe and th ral, and that it was then in the same conlition as when it was brought to the house

Until to-day nothing was thought of sacrificing to our country's wrongs. For six months we had worked to capture; but, one cause being almost lost, something declaive and great must be done; but its fallure was owing to others, who did not strike for their country with a heart.

I struck boldly, and not as the papers say. I walked with a firm step through a thousand of his friends, and was stopped, but pushed on. A colonel was at his side I shouted "Sic Semper" before I fired. In jumping I broke my leg.

I passed all his pickets, rode sixty miles that night with the bone of my leg tearing the flesh at every jump. I can never repent it, though we hated to kill. Our country owed all her troubles to him, and God simply made me the instrument of his punishment. The country is not what it was.

For my country I have given up all that makes life sweet and holy; brought misery mpon my family, and am sure there is no pardon in the beaven for me, since man condemns me so. I have only heard of what has been done, except what I did myself, and it fills me with horror. God, try and forgive me, and bless my mother. To-night I will once more try the river with the intent to cross, though I had a greater desire and almost a mind to return to Washington, and in a measure, clear my name, which I feel I can do. I do not repent the hidwards. I swear before my God but not to man, I think I have done well, though I am abandoned with the carse of Gain upon me. If the world knew my heart, that one blow would have made me great, though I diddesire no greatness. To-night I try to escape these bloodhounds once more. Who can read his fate? "God's will be done." At, must agree that the children referred to condinot, by any possibility, have har any agency in bringing about their present deployable and desitute condition, and are suitable objects for the charity of all persons of whatever shale of political opinion. The "Home and School" which they now, more particularly, seek to establish and endow, will be of incalculable benefit by providing not only food and rament for these helpless owns, but likewise solid and thorough education, thus qualifying them for future neutrinos to society

the American Watches, manufactured at Walthan Mass., are not only equal, but far superior to th common watches of England, Switzerland, an II .- While we admit that it would be difficult t manufacturers, and while we do not claim to hav made any decisive improvements over them, we do assert and challenge a successful denial, that our superior class of watches are fully equal, in every respect, to the most expensive specimens of foreign chronometrical art.

III .- We claim that our Watches are cheaper more accurate, less complex, more durable, better adapted for American use, and more vasily kept in order and repaired than any other watche in the market.

1V .- The reasons why our Watches possess thes dvantages over their European rivals are chiefly First. Because the principle of the division of abor's carried out in our workshops to its exremost limits, not in human industry only, but is machinery as well. Every watch passes through hundreds of hands and hundreds of machines. Second. Because we promptly adopt every ne-invention to perfect our machinery, and ever proffered improvement in the structure of watches Third. Because in each of the very numerou sinute, and often microscopic parts of which a watch is made up, we attain, by mechanical power, nearly absolutemathematical precision and uni ormity, which it is utterly impossible to achieve by manual labor. Wheels, pinions, escapements calances, springs, and scrows-exact counterparts in weight, circumference, and dimensions-are turned out by millions by the uncrring, because un swerving, trou hands of machinery. Hence, ever, watch of any one style is a true copy of its model

V .- These results enable us to defy foreign ri valry, because nosimilar uniformity and precision is attainable by hand, and because in Wal him alone is machinery exclusively employed in the manufacture of this intricate and delicate much in structure reduces the cost of production; if so cures uniformity in results; it perpetuates and in fallibly diffuses any excellence that may be one achieved; and makes it easy to repair any injury sustained, or replace may part that may be lost or destroyed.

VII-In addition to these mechanical advantages ourWatches are simpler in structure, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than the ma jority of foreign watches. They are composed of from 125 to 300 pieces. In an old English watch there are more than 700 parts.

VIII .-- We began our experiment in 1853, in th face of a formidable prejudice against American watches. Our system was new and untried. We have steadily increased our facilities, until now well as in the Mexican and British Provinces and Colonies. Their universal popularity is the best proof of their merit that we can produce. They have won their way in spite of every opposition and of immemorial prejudices. Hundreds of dealers all over the country have expressed their preference for our products after a long and practical experience with foreign watches.
